

parents' responses to their children's behavior. The results of this study were used to examine the relationship between parenting styles and child outcomes.

The first purpose of this study was to examine the relationship between parenting styles and child outcomes.

The second purpose of this study was to examine the relationship between parenting styles and child outcomes.

The third purpose of this study was to examine the relationship between parenting styles and child outcomes.

The fourth purpose of this study was to examine the relationship between parenting styles and child outcomes.

The fifth purpose of this study was to examine the relationship between parenting styles and child outcomes.

The sixth purpose of this study was to examine the relationship between parenting styles and child outcomes.

The seventh purpose of this study was to examine the relationship between parenting styles and child outcomes.

The eighth purpose of this study was to examine the relationship between parenting styles and child outcomes.

The ninth purpose of this study was to examine the relationship between parenting styles and child outcomes.

The tenth purpose of this study was to examine the relationship between parenting styles and child outcomes.

The eleventh purpose of this study was to examine the relationship between parenting styles and child outcomes.

The twelfth purpose of this study was to examine the relationship between parenting styles and child outcomes.

The thirteenth purpose of this study was to examine the relationship between parenting styles and child outcomes.

The fourteenth purpose of this study was to examine the relationship between parenting styles and child outcomes.

The fifteenth purpose of this study was to examine the relationship between parenting styles and child outcomes.

The sixteenth purpose of this study was to examine the relationship between parenting styles and child outcomes.

The seventeenth purpose of this study was to examine the relationship between parenting styles and child outcomes.

The eighteenth purpose of this study was to examine the relationship between parenting styles and child outcomes.

The nineteenth purpose of this study was to examine the relationship between parenting styles and child outcomes.

The twentieth purpose of this study was to examine the relationship between parenting styles and child outcomes.

The twenty-first purpose of this study was to examine the relationship between parenting styles and child outcomes.

The twenty-second purpose of this study was to examine the relationship between parenting styles and child outcomes.

The twenty-third purpose of this study was to examine the relationship between parenting styles and child outcomes.

The twenty-fourth purpose of this study was to examine the relationship between parenting styles and child outcomes.

The twenty-fifth purpose of this study was to examine the relationship between parenting styles and child outcomes.

The twenty-sixth purpose of this study was to examine the relationship between parenting styles and child outcomes.